Purpose of this workshop

To provide an update on Workforce Solutions' efforts to both provide career pathway training program and occupational storytelling to youth and young adults.

Agenda

- Welcome & Introductions.
- Summer Journalism Intensive – Center for Broadcast Journalism.
- Road Trip Nation & E3L Cohort (Exposure, Environment, Experience & Legacy).
- Next Steps and Continued Efforts.

Why digital media?

- In engagement with young people, they identify art/creative pathways and technology as areas of interest.
- Many young people are seeking entrepreneurship and work for self opportunities due to discrimination and challenges in typical corporate work environments.

Why digital media?

- Power of storytelling
 - “I’m a storyteller before anything else.” – Gio, Pioneer Press.
- Many youth are pursuing storytelling in non-traditional pathways (influencing) that have transferrable skills to other career opportunities.
- Diverse perspectives in media benefit the entire community.

Summer Journalism Intensive

- Development of the Center for Broadcast Journalism (CBJ)
 - Vision: To create a new standard in the broadcasting industry that normalizes diversity, values inclusivity as much as objectivity and improves accessibility to career opportunities, particularly for Black and Brown women.
- Program Details:
 - Supported seven students.
 - Four-week paid training program (July 2024) learning basics of journalism from local professionals.
 - Four- or eight-week paid internships with local media organizations (Star Tribune, Pioneer Press, Spokesman-Recorder, CBJ).
 - Students received a pack of essential technology and tools to keep for their career journey.

E3L Cohort

- To enhance the opportunity presented with Road Trip Nation, Youth Lens 360 partnered with Road Trip Nation to support and create additional video content for the site.
- Six-month cohort experience, finishing second cohort currently.
- Paid opportunity, students are learning video production, leadership skills, civic engagement, networking and other growth opportunities.
 - Road Trip Nation staff regularly provide virtual learning and connection for participants (monthly webinars).
- Support approximately six participants per cohort.

YOUTH LENS

Continued Efforts

- E3L cohort experiences will continue through 2026, as supported with ARPA resources.
- Summer Journalism Intensive, plan to continue next summer, as state funding allows (Minnesota Youth Program).
- Exploring extended internship/work opportunities leveraging ARPA.
- Continuing to explore other programming and pathways to support young people, especially those led by industry/employers.
 - Leverage direct connections for hands-on internships and work experiences.
